Do all roads lead to academia? Learn how to identify your academic strengths and how to apply them in your next career move whether in academia or industry. Come away from this workshop with tips to identify your strengths and steps you can take today to influence your next career move. Hear a testimonial on making the transition from academia into industry and what it’s like to work at Microsoft as a user researcher.